Charlotte Behavioral Health Care Collects Over 9,200 Diapers and Baby Wipes for Healthy Start Families

PUNTA GORDA, Fla. (November 29, 2018) – One in three American moms struggle every day to provide their babies with the basic essentials; the first and foremost - diapers. Providing diapers are so critical due to the fact that there is very little help or public resources that address this issue. For example, food assistance programs, like food stamps, focus solely on food and nutrition and do not cover diapers. There are no federal assistance programs that pay for or provide diapers. Not WIC, Food Stamps or Medicare. Non-profit organizations such as Charlotte County Healthy Start Coalition work with families and individuals in crisis and are constantly listing diapers as an ongoing and top priority.

An average infant uses up to 12 diapers per day, a toddler up to 8 per day. But in low income houses, a baby may be in a single diaper all day or longer. The cost of diapers for a young child can reach upwards of $100 per month, a stressful amount for vulnerable families living on the edge.

During the month of October, Charlotte Behavioral Health Care held their 7th Annual Diaper Drive to benefit low-income families in the local Healthy Start program. “Thanks to our amazing community and staff, we had a record year, collecting 4,895 diapers and 4,384 baby wipes!” said Jessica Martell, Office Manager at Charlotte Behavioral Health Care Healthy Start in Port Charlotte. “The cost of diapers can be overwhelming, and our families sometimes have to choose between diapers and food or other essentials for their families. This is a great start to our year-round need.”

The items donated from the diaper drive will benefit moms and infants still in diapers in the Charlotte County Healthy Start Program. The Charlotte County Healthy Start Coalition is a collaborative effort of doctors, nurses and other area health care professionals that join together to evaluate each pregnancy to help expectant moms have healthier babies, reduce infant mortality, and improve the overall health and development of Charlotte County children. Each mom-to-be and newborn is screened to determine the types of services they might need for baby’s healthy start in life.
