Medication Assisted Treatment - SUPPORT GROUP -

At Charlotte Behavioral Health Care, we know there are as many paths to recovery as there are individuals working toward their own recovery. Medication Assisted Treatment is a crucial part of that path for a growing number of people. Some groups and organizations haven't yet embraced the value of this path, and may make it difficult for people in MAT to find judgement-free support.

A new group at CBHC aims to change that, offering free, open discussion and support among recovery peers. You don't have to make this journey alone, and you don't have to accept stigma as you make healthy, positive choices for your life.

You are welcome here.
